Dear Reader,

My dear friend, Rav Michael Bar Ron, has approached me, asking for a letter of approbation for his work on the Seven Noachide Laws. I usually do not write such letters for fear that an approbation might imply agreement with every point that is contained in the book, and such agreement rarely exists. With that in mind, I have, nevertheless, agreed to write this letter, for three reasons.

First, I know Rav Michael to be a humble servant of HaShem, sincere, thoughtful, caring, and wise.

Second, I know that the topic of his book, sharing knowledge of the Noachide Laws to a readership that is thirsty to learn them, is of the utmost value.

Third, and perhaps most important, I know Rav Michael's halakhic approach – teaching Torah law in accordance with the pristine words of the Rishonim, the early Talmudic Sages. This approach, one that I enthusiastically endorse and embrace, reflects a genuine adherence to our authentic holy mesorah, the ancient and living transmission of Torah ideas and values.

As the founding Rosh Mesivta of the Mesivta of North Jersey, and as a maggid shiur in various venues, as well as in my capacity as Director of Day School & Educational Services of the Orthodox Union, I have seen how wisdom, knowledge, and passion can transform a student of Torah – both in the world of the yeshiva for Bnei Yisrael, and in the world in general for Bnei Noach. I wholeheartedly commend Rav Michael for his initiative, his compassion, his approach, and for his sharing the word of HaShem with the children of Noach throughout the world. I wish him the greatest success, and hope that this book will serve its purpose of teaching and guiding all those who sincerely seek to know their divine role within HaShem's master plan for humanity.

I close with blessings of Torah for wisdom, happiness, fulfillment, and success.

Sincerely yours,

Rabbi Saul Zucker
